SA 21	Introduction to Sociology and Anthropology Check AISIS for instructors and schedules. This course introduces the different perspectives of sociology and anthropology with reference to the Philippine context. Focus is on how forces of culture, social structure, and social institutions influence human behaviour and how individuals acting as a group reproduce and transform these same social forces.
SA 100	Basic Statistics for the Social Sciences Ms. Dawn Iva P. Satumbaga T-TH 11:00am – 12:30 pm; SECA 118A Ms. Lourdes Gordolan T-TH 2:00pm – 3:30 pm; B-307 This course is an introduction to statistics as a research tool for assessing social phenomena, focusing on selected univariate and bivariate measures, both descriptive and inferential. The approach is non-mathematical, emphasizing the application of appropriate statistical procedures to specific problems.
SA 101	Survey of Social Theories Dr. Liza L. Lim M-W-F 12:00 pm – 1:00 pm; CTC 206 This course is a study of theories of societies developed in the disciplines of anthropology and sociology in the 19th and 20th centuries, with a discussion of the theorists within their historical milieu, as well as their contribution to the social sciences.
SA 104	Qualitative Methods for the Social Sciences Dr. Jose Jowel P. Canuday Wed 6:00 pm – 9:00 pm; CTC 404 This course is an analysis of anthropological and sociological works, focusing on the claims and conclusions presented, the research methods used, and the different theoretical approaches employed. The skills needed for qualitative data collection are developed by designing and implementing research projects.
SA 105	Practicum I (4th year AB SOS majors & minors in Sociology & CHSP) Ms. Cherie Audrey Alfiler Mon 1:00 pm – 4:00 pm; SS PSY COMP RM Dr. Jose Jowel P. Canuday Mon 1:00 pm – 4:00 pm; SS 312 Dr. Enrique Niño P. Leviste Mon 1:00 pm – 4:00 pm; SS 282 Dr. Jose Jowel P. Canuday Tutorial; SA DEPT Students undertake research for practical training in this application course. Focus is on the social survey, a research approach widely used in the social sciences. Students go through the survey process from conceptualization to report writing, and finally, to the presentation of findings.

SA 110	Social Change and Social Conflict (Juniors & Seniors only) Dr. Anna Marie A. Karaos Wed 5:00 pm – 8:00 pm; K-201 This course is a study of social change through development toward equality and participation, which have been called two forms of man's dignity and freedom (Pope Paul VI, Octogesima Adveniens, 1971).
SA 117	Introduction to Archaeology Dr. Evelyn J. Caballero and Dr. William Reynolds Fri 9:00 am – 12:00 pm; SS 282 This course introduces archeology as intimately related to environmental issues. Paleobotany, geomorphology, zoo-archeology, and other allied scientific disciplines provide information that allows for anthropological interpretation of man's adaptation to his environment. The course also looks at the Philippines in terms of environmental archaeology.
SA 126	Social Inequality (Juniors & Seniors only) Dr. Elizabeth Uy Eviota Tues 12:30 pm – 3:30 pm; SOM 104 This course studies inequality as a matter of patterned structures, not as something randomly distributed between individuals. The course looks at inequalities between nations and between groups, and examines the intersections of these inequalities and how controlled and exploited groups respond to social inequality.
SA 128	Cities and Society (Seniors & Minor in Sustainability only) Dr. Emma Porio Thurs 5:00 pm – 8:00 pm; F 114 This course analyzes the constitution and reconstitution of socio-political and economic spaces and urban life through an examination of concepts and theories that inform urban studies and their application to empirical issues. Field work assignments are given for better understanding of discussions done in class.
SA 143	Social Movements (Juniors & Seniors only) Dr. Liza L. Lim T-TH 11:00 am – 12:30 pm; BEL-212 This course is an introduction to sociological concepts on collective behavior and social movements, using the conceptual tools offered by these theories and of contemporary social processes. Special attention is paid to the relevance of theoretical frameworks in understanding the dynamics of contemporary social movements.
SA 148	Feminist Theory (Juniors & Seniors only) Dr. Elizabeth Uy Eviota Tues 5:00 pm – 8:00 pm; CTC 106 Feminist Theory starts from the position that women as a social group are subordinated and that it is necessary to explain this subordination in order that women can be liberated from it. In so doing, feminist theory has challenged basic theoretical assumptions of mainstream work: its theories, methods and explanations. But as a political movement, feminism is not a unified one. There are fundamental disagreements about the causes of that subordination and therefore of the strategies for achieving liberation. This survey course deals with the major theoretical perspectives of feminism; the interconnections between specific recommendations for change and their theoretical presuppositions; and how feminist knowledge is produced. The course also discusses contemporary challenges facing the feminist movement, especially, neoliberal capitalism and imperialist wars.

SA 199.1	Special topics in Sociology and Anthropology: Culture and the Senses Dr. Fernando N. Zialcita T-TH 2:00 pm – 3:30 pm; CTC 307 Ms. Nota F. Magno T-TH 2:00 pm – 3:30 pm; CTC 308 This course introduces the varied aspects of cultural heritage. Two alternative ways are explored in the course: 1) look for and appreciate the grammar of major human artifacts; and 2) identify the hallmarks of the Filipino sensibility as manifested by vernacular terms and particular artifacts.
SOAN 108.3	New! Special Topics in the Sociology and Anthropology: Media and Social Media (Juniors & Seniors only) Dr. Joson A. Lorenzana Thurs 12:30 pm – 3:30 pm; SS 280 Using anthropological and sociological approaches, the course examines media as institution, practice and experience. It focuses on how media in the contemporary world constitute social and cultural formations and shape politics. Ethnographies of traditional and digital media from different societies and periods provide a comparative perspective to critically understand the ways in which people produce, consume, engage, inhabit, use and incorporate media into everyday life.
Socio 102	New! Sociology of the Philippines Dr. Fernando N. Zialcita T-TH 11:00 am – 12:30 pm; BEL-313 A critical discussion of selected contemporary social issues in the Philippines using sociological perspectives, theories, and social science research methods.
SocSci11	Understanding the Self Check AISIS for instructors and schedules under the School of Social Sciences. Drawing from interdisciplinary perspectives across the social sciences, SocSci 1 probes and integrates the plural understanding of the self. The course frames the self as a thinking and sensing, affecting and behaving, and physiological and embodied person engaging in meaningful relations within the broader social and cultural worlds that enable and constrain. Through a reflexive process, an embedded and engaged self is expressed, realized and transformed within intersecting personal and social relationships, localities, cosmopolitan spaces, and rapidly shifting technological worlds.
SocSci12	The Contemporary World Check AISIS for instructors and schedules under the School of Social Sciences. This course provides an overview of global studies, and globalization in particular, from the perspective of different social science disciplines. It examines the economic, social, cultural, political, technological, and other transformations that have created an increasing awareness of the interrelationships and interconnectedness of peoples and places around the globe. It analyzes individual and institutional responses to globalization.
